DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1 and 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by U.S. patent No. 5,716,359 to Ojima et al. Ojima discloses a push-in bone anchor 30 and a biocompatible brittle cover 10. The brittle cover is capable of substantially covering the anchor 30 and breaking when implanted with the anchor. The anchor is considered “push-in” since a longitudinal force is required to insert the anchor (along with a rotational force). The cover 10 comprises hydroxyapatite, which is inherently biocompatible and bioabsorbable.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 5 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ojima in view of U.S. Patent No. 5,637,631 to Kitada et al. Ojima fails to disclose one of the recited materials of claim 5. Nevertheless, Kitada teaches in col. 1, lines 44-49, that polylactic acid is a brittle material. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use either the brittle materials disclosed by Ojima or the brittle polylactic acid as taught by Kitada.

Claims 6, 7, 9 and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ojima in view of U.S. Patent No. 5,545,178 to Kensey et al. Ojima fails to disclose an antibiotic. Nevertheless, Kensey discloses an implant comprising an antibiotic that is located both on the surface of the implant or within the implant material (col. 17, lines 39-45). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to include an antibiotic in the either on the surface or disposed with the cover to prevent infection as taught by Kensey.

Claims 8 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ojima in view of WO 99/37216 to Gellman et al. Ojima fails to disclose the use of an antibiotic or the specific material of the antibiotic. Nevertheless, Gellman teaches the use of an antibiotic having the recited materials of claim 8 (page 3, lines 23-28). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to add an antibiotic of the recited materials as taught by Gellman in order to prevent infection.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-10 have been considered but are moot in view of the new grounds of rejection.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
